We are required by OAR 333-081-0075 to provide you this information:

How we dispose of Anatomical Material:

All donors and anatomical material are cremated. We work with a licensed crematory that cremates the anatomical material that is returned individually. With these cremated remains, you will receive a notice indicating if you have received a part or all of the donor’s cremated remains. The anatomical material that is used for research or educational purposes is cremated and not returned to anyone. These cremated remains are scattered.

Coverage of Costs: If a donor is accepted at the time of death, BioGift will only pay for these costs related to the donation process.

This includes:
- All transportation costs from the place of death to our facility in Portland, Oregon
- Services of a funeral provider to complete the necessary paperwork to transport and file the death certificate
- Cremation process by a licensed crematory
- Either a return of the partial or full amount of cremated remains to a designated individual; or scattering of cremated remains at sea
- Two certified copies of the death certificate

BioGift will only cover the above costs. It is the individual’s, next of kin or guardian’s responsibility to pay for any type of service, gathering, viewing, visitation or any type of merchandise that they choose or purchase.

Exclusions to Coverage of Costs:

If BioGift declines the donation because the donor does not meet our criteria for donation, we will not cover any expenses. If an individual or family member rescinds the authorization to donate, we will not cover any costs relating to any type of funeral expenses. If we originally accepted the donation and have started the donation process and the authorization is rescinded, all costs incurred by BioGift Anatomical will become the responsibility of rescinding individual.
